

Photograph of the fruits of the Nagi (Myrica nagi), one-half natural size. It is a showy, wine-colored fruit produced by a slow-growing tree that will probably be hardy in northern Florida and the Gulf States. It has a vinous flavor and is altogether a very attractive table fruit.